Discover the Orient Rods BESTIA (PP) series, a special modification of the Bestia 13' 3-5oz (PP) rod that stands out for its innovative polypropylene (PP) film coating. This film, which is wrapped around the blank at a specific angle, not only gives the rod exceptional resistance to impacts, but also provides optimum protection against aggressive environments such as salt water. All other characteristics of this series correspond to those of the Bestia (VC) series with lacquer coating.

This rod series is specially designed for intensive sport fishing and use in aggressive environments. The PP film coating offers the rod a number of additional advantages that make it particularly functional:

- Increased impact resistance: the rod is particularly resistant to physical impact, making it ideal for demanding conditions
- Excellent protection in aggressive environments: Thanks to the low moisture absorption of the PP film, the rod is optimally protected from salt water and other aggressive environments
- Increased stiffness and strength : The special wrapping of the PP film at a specific angle gives the blank extra strength and stiffness
- Better wear resistance: The coating has an increased resistance to wear and tear, which extends the life of the rod
- Electrical insulation: Although the PP film can be considered an electrically insulating material, it is recommended not to use the rods during a thunderstorm to avoid any risk

The Orient Rods BESTIA (PP) series is therefore an excellent choice for anglers who fish in extreme conditions and do not want to compromise on the quality and durability of their equipment.
