Korda DuraKord

Leadcore was a revolutionary product and is the number 1 leader for many, but wherever a sinking leader is not required or even desired, we would be better off with an extremely robust leader without a lead core.

When developing Durakord, the product developers focused on the needs of anglers who regularly face the extreme demands of waters such as the Rhine (Germany), the Albert Canal (Belgium), the Rhône, Lac du Salagou or Lac de Curton (France). Damian Clarke, himself an important member of the product development team, regularly fishes the Lac de Curton (Rainbow Lake) and knows what is important there.

Durakord is an extremely abrasion-resistant, strong, highly knot-resistant leader that is easy to work with, especially with the slicing needle. Durakord has no lead core and therefore no weight in the water. This braid floats without additional weighting. It is therefore also very suitable for use with subfloats, for example.
