The exciting new design is built around the much talked about Slik Clip, which can be used in different ways, which is a massive advantage over similar types of hangers. The Slik Clip is designed so that your main line sits in the base of the clip rather than just sitting on it. This significantly increases the sensitivity of your bobbin, which is especially important when using slack lines, so that the line cannot move even a millimeter without indication. However, if you experience a real line pull on the line, the clip releases and the line runs through the center of the Slik Clip, so that you still have the hanger as an indicator on the line in the event of a sudden change to a drop bite. Another advantage of the Slik Clip is that the tension is fully adjustable so that different line diameters can always be used with the optimum tension. Alternatively, the clip can also be used as a traditional free-running clip. In addition to this clever clip, the set comes with a black 3inch ball chain, a small head and an adapter.

BLACK LABEL™ BITE INDICATOR
This eye-catching new bite indicator range has not only been designed to match our Black Label bankstick range, but also improves the sensitivity of the bite indicator. What is particularly good about this range is that you can buy a set of hangers for relatively little money and then add to and expand them according to different conditions, as a single system is not the optimum choice in every situation.
